Public Opinion Solicited On Naming of Hill in Ravalli County

(HELENA) --- The Montana State Library is soliciting public opinion on the assignment of the name "Cheatgrass Hill" to an un-named slope in Ravalli County. The location in question is about two miles southeast of Stevensville, as shown on the map at http://msl.mt.gov/geonames/maps/40501_Cheatgrass_Hill.pdf.

The name is proposed by Gregory Johnson of Stevensville, who says it is based on the grass that is found there.

The request to name the hill was received by the U.S. Board of Geographic Names (BGN), which determines what names the federal government recognizes for natural features of the landscape. The BGN assigns an individual in each state as that state's Geographic Names Advisor, whose duties include soliciting opinions from state and local officials, as well as state agencies, on name recommendations. Montana's Geographic Names Advisor is Gerald Daumiller, a GIS programmer and analyst with the Montana State Library.

The public is invited to submit their comments or opinions on the proposed name to Gerald Daumiller by calling (406) 444-5358 or by emailing gdaumiller@mt.gov before September 19, 2011. More information about this proposal is available at <http://msl.mt.gov/geonames>.

Through its statewide programs, the Montana State Library empowers Montanans; enhances learning in families and communities; builds 21st Century skills; and provides opportunities for civic participation. For more information, visit <http://msl.mt.gov>.
